

Paraeducator.net is available. For those who are new to our district, an invitation was sent via email to get you started. If you already have an established account and cannot access it, please email Jennifer Sottak @ jsottak@laconiaschools.org She will take care of it.
https://portal.masterteacher.net/users/sign_in

Local Libraries

With school closure, local libraries are allowing free downloads of all kinds of books. After reading, complete the form including a summary of your impressions and how the professional reading will influence your work moving forward.

CPR/First Aid Certification

This online course takes about 30 hours and can be stopped and started again during the course to meet our needs. It does cost $30 that you can submit this PD request through MLP and be provided the funds. Once the online portion is complete, the test portion will be completed with your building nurses once we return to school.

Any current online courses

If you are currently engaging in an online course this can continue during your professional development remote learning time.

PODCASTS

There are several educational podcasts available, one with Julie Caustin who focuses on inclusion. There are hundreds of hours available for free! Podcasts can be downloaded to your iPhone through the Podcast APP. If you need assistance with this please let your Student Services Administrator know.

Relevant Educational Articles

There are many resources available online. We plan to share specific sites you can access in a later communication.

Tangible resources

Some of you may be challenged with technology outside of the school setting. Many Administrators have professional reading through books and magazines that you can access. If this is something you'd like to access please contact your building Student Services Administrator and they will assist.

Online mandatory and suggested trainings

More information forthcoming

There are MANY MORE resources that will be coming out over the next few days as we prepare for remote learning. Please be diligent about checking your email for updates.

Again, we can't stress enough how important you are to our learning community and the students and families you support.

Thank you and stay tuned!!

Student Services

